- WORLD DAY FOR CULTURAL DIVERSITY
FOR DIALOGUE AND DEVELOPMENT

Following the adoption of the Universal Declaration of the UNESCO on Cultural Diversity, the General Assembly of the United Nations Organization proclaimed May 21 as the World Day for Cultural Diversity for Dialogue and Development through resolution 57/249.

This document states "tolerance and respect for cultural diversity and the universal promotion and protection of human rights, including the right to development, reinforce each other". In this way, culture becomes a means to achieve prosperity, sustainable development and peaceful coexistence worldwide.

In 2014, Irina Bokova, the first female to head the UNESCO, pointed out: *Our cultural diversity is the common heritage of humanity. It works as a source for renewing ideas and societies, allowing us to open up to others and conceive new ways of thinking. This diversity is an opportunity for peace and sustainable development.*² This diversity is a valuable resource to achieve development objectives, said Bokova.

The History Commission of the Pan American Institute of Geography and History promotes our cultural diversity, so as to contribute to establish the links between the countries of The Americas. It promotes projects aimed at improving regional and international cooperation for development, social
